HUGHES IN PARIS N.Y. to Le Bourget --16 Hrs. 35 Mins.

(Other Stories, Pictures on Pages 2 and 5)

PARIS, July 11 (AP)—Howard Hughes landed at Le Bourget airport at 4:55 p. m. (11:55 a. m., Boston time) on a trans-Atlantic flight from New York, the first leg of a projected round-the-world flight.

'Awfully Glad' Says Kay-Hep

SAYBROOK, Ct., July 11 (INS)—"I'm awfully glad to hear he made it," said Katherine Hepburn, movie star vacationing here, when told Howard Hughes had landed safely in Paris.

"Just like him," she added, when told that he intended to refuel at once and take off for Moscow, on his round the world flight effort. She admitted having been at the radio most of the night, listening to reports of progress of the flight, only to fall asleep before the actual landing time.

Hughes visited the star, with whom his name has been frequently linked, at Saybrook yesterday, before returning to New York for a brief rest before the take off from Floyd Bennett Field.

THE WEATHER

The American sportsman flier glided to an easy landing, taxiing up a concrete runway in front of the airdrome where a crowd of officials and on-lookers rushed to meet the big, gleaming twin-motored plane.

His time from New York was 16 hours and 35 minutes—less than half the time of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh who flew non-stop from New York to Paris in 1927 in 33½ hours.

The airport's official control time for the landing was 3:55 p. m. Greenwich mean time (11:55 a. m., Boston time), figured from the moment the propellers stopped.

The American flag was run up on the airdrome staff five minutes before Hughes and his four-man crew loomed over the field long before they were expected.

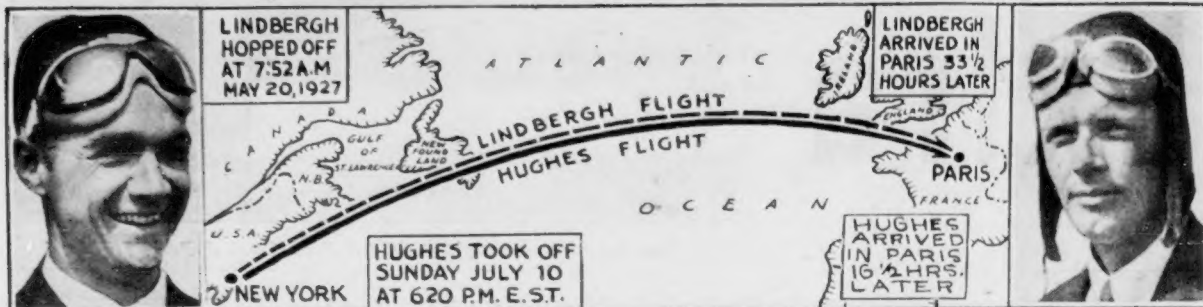

The fliers were expected to remain in Paris long enough only to refuel and then take off for Moscow

Hears Happy News!—Katherine Hepburn, famous actress, joyfully received news of the transatlantic flight, for she was reported to have sent her heart with Hughes to Paris in the big silver monoplane.

As Hughes Shattered 'Lindy's' Record

The first non-stop flight between New York and Paris since Charles A. Lindbergh, "The Lone Eagle," accomplished it in 1927, was achieved by Howard Hughes, millionaire sportsman-pilot, as he flew across the Atlantic.

He succeeded in completing his flying journey in 16 hours, 37 minutes, breaking "Lindy's" time of 33 1/2 hours. Takeoff was from Floyd Bennett Airport, Long Island, at 7:20 p. m. daylight time. The above map shows the route in hope of completing their round-the-world Odessey within six days.

The big plane rolled to a gentle stop in front of Le Bourget field's main building, where United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt headed a throng of French and Americans waiting to greet the airman.

Hughes, however, did not cut the two motors for almost a full minute after rolling to a stop—the first flier since Lindbergh to make the flight.

As soon as the propellers stopped whirling the ambassador went to the door of the plane and opened it. He stuck his head in and shouted:

"Congratulations, did you have a good trip?"

PLAN TO TAKE OFF AT ONCE.

Hughes said he was planning to take off for Russia "as quickly as possible."

And that means "one or two hours," he added.

Hughes was the first of his crew to alight. He was evidently tired, but had a broad grin on his face. Before coming out he had taken the trouble to put on a necktie and place a hat on his head.

The flight leader was followed by the other four airmen.

"We had a fine trip," said Hughes. "We made it in 16 hours 37 minutes."

Hughes evidently figured his elapsed time from the moment the airport was sighted, as other calculations gave 16 hours 35 minutes.

French air officers stepped up to pat Hughes on the back and touch his hand.

Bullitt introduced his army and naval attaches and French officers to Hughes and members of his crew in turn.

The five fliers, accompanied by the ambassador, went to the airport commandant's office after police succeeded in cutting a path-way through the dense crowds which were shouting:

"Long live the Americans!"

A special ground crew took the plane in hand immediately after Hughes and her crew left it and began to tune up the motor.

STARTS REFUELING

Gasoline trucks were backed up and started immediately refueling.

So quickly did the plane arrive at the airport that everyone was caught unawares. The first inkling was when the plane hove out of the clouds to descend quickly to the field.

Because the plane is of the same type as those used by a large commercial airline with a terminal here many observers thought at first that the plane was simply another airliner from London.

Few in Hub See Hughes Soar Above

Winging fast and at 10,000 feet, Howard Hughes, and his crew passed east of Boston Light at 8:55 last night, just one hour and six minutes after leaving New York on a round-the-world flight.

Few saw the speedy twin-motored monoplane as it passed east of Boston, off the regular beam and bound for Paris by contact and compass.

Although Hughes is operating on four different radio bands, his signals were not picked up by the control tower at the East Boston airport.

The first intimation officials had that the fliers were over France was a radio message informing Le Bourget they were about to land. It barely had been received when the plane's broad wings dipped down toward the surprised crowds.

REFUSES FOOD

Until that moment, in fact, airport officials denied the fliers even had reached the French coast.

Brown hat awry, Hughes immediately checked the plane and gave orders to refuel it. He said he had not been able to check but believed he had 250 gallons of gasoline left when he landed.

Hughes was so eager to get off

Tail Wind Aids Big Ship On 1st Leg of World Hop

as fast as possible he refused to eat or drink.

He said weather reports showed good conditions on the other side of the Rhine, and he would head straight for Moscow by way of Cologne, Germany. Permission to fly over Germany, he said, had been granted.

(The airline distance from Paris to Moscow is 1541 miles, about eight hours flying time if Hughes' plane matches its transatlantic speed.)

Forty minutes after touching ground the sportsman flier was poring over weather maps and inquiring about conditions, with Ambassador Bullitt helping him as interpreter.

PLANE FUELED, OILED

The plane already was being fueled and oiled. Mechanics were checking and overhauling it.

Rain, which fell just before his arrival, had stopped, but it still was very cloudy. The ceiling over Le Bourget was about 1500 feet with a wind of eight or 10 miles an hour.

Earlier fears by Hughes that his fuel supply would be exhausted apparently were dispelled as the lightning plane picked up speed with every passing hour.

Flight Manager Lodwick said Hughes radioed the Ile de France in mid-ocean at 6:25 a. m., Boston time, 21 hours and 5 minutes after the takeoff, that he was 2250 miles from New York.

Lodwick, confident the fuel supply would hold out, said the plane should complete the 3600-mile flight "in 17 or 18 hours" if it could maintain its speed, instead of the 22 to 24 hours expected. The big rebuilt $55,000 transport ship, aided by tailwinds, was traveling an average of 30 miles more an hour than was hoped.

CONFIDENT

"Hughes should pick up speed from now on," Lodwick said. "He has plenty of gas, however, so there need be no worry about him reaching Paris."

Hughes, busy checking his directional guides, was unable to keep up scheduled hourly radio broadcasts.

The pilot, on a good-will trip in behalf of the New York World's Fair of 1939, accompanied by a crew of four, lifted the plane off Floyd Bennett Field in Brooklyn at 7:20 p. m. (E.D.T.) time last night.

Then, with Hughes remaining at the controls most of the time, the huge ship shot up the Atlantic ed Newfoundland to reach the coast, past Nova Scotia and skirt-open Atlantic.

Flight Crew Youthful

FLOYD BENNETT FIELD, N. Y., July 11 (INS)—Young in years, but grizzled old veterans in experience, are the four members of the crew who today flew to Paris with Howard Hughes. Here is a thumbnail sketch of each:

T. L. THURLOW, navigator, born in Santa Ana, Cal., May 29, 1905. In Army Air Corps from 1929 until July, 1936. Stationed at Fort Crockett, Tex.; Rockwell Field, Cal.; March Field, Cal., and Wright Field.

HARRY P. McLEAN CONNOR, U. S. Navy navigator, born in Passaic, N. J., December 26, 1899. Navigator on Roger Q. Williams' transatlantic flight in 1929-30 and co-pilot and navigator with Captain J. Erroll Boyd on flight from Montreal to London in October, 1930.

RICHARD N. STODDART, radio engineer, born in New York City December 1, 1900, secured radio license in 1919. With Hughes as radio engineer since 1927 on leave from National Broadcasting Company.

ED LUND, flight engineer, is 32 and from Kalispell, Mont. With Hughes Aircraft Company from 1932 to 1937. Now general manager, Eastern branch, Chas. H. Babb Company.

Baba to Push
Paradise Plan

PRINCESS BABA BOB GREGORY
Planning Island Home

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11 (INS)—Princess Baba of Sarawak is going right ahead with her plans to buy an East Indian island and start a tropical paradise, despite her mother's sarcastic remarks, she declared today.

Her mother, the white rane of Sarawak, was quoted in London dispatches as saying:

"Baba is going to buy an island? What with? She couldn't buy a thimble."

Princess Baba's husband, Bob Gregory, British wrestler, declared:

"We'll soon have enough for the down payment. What do you think I'm wrestling almost every night for?"

"And we'll form a defensive alliance with some nation in return for long-term credits, to pay the balance."

Irked by the rane's ridicule, they are going ahead with negotiations with the Dutch consul general here, to purchase an island in the Dutch East Indies for $30,000, they said. They plan "a sort of royal democracy, with every man a rajah." The princess and her husband are living in Palo Alto, near here. They expect birth of a child soon.

U. S. Locks Away
$4,000,000 Silver

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Five trucks moved nearly $4,000,000 worth of bar silver today from the U. S. assay office to the new Government vaults at West Point.

The first two trucks left before dawn with an escort of police radio cars. The others, in groups of two or three, followed at half-hour intervals.

Scores of film production personalities lavishly commended the university for its action. Educational dignitaries, too, voiced their approval of the plan.

At the same time Dartmouth College attempted to steal some of the glory with the boast that it already had made the same move, and that the New Hampshire institution was the first to place cultural seal of approval on the moving picture.

The claim came from Sidney Hayward, secretary of Dartmouth, who stated that while Robert D. Field, professor of fine arts at Harvard, was Hollywood-bound, Prof. Benfield Pressey, Dartmouth professor of English, already was gathering material on the West Coast.

ALL DOORS OPEN

Miss Marsters told in her article how Harvard had approved Dr. Field's declaration that "motion pictures are as much a part of the 20th century as Michelangelo's paintings were of the 16th century."

Production heads of every large studio said today that the doors to every phase of movie-making would be opened to the professor.

Louis B. Mayer, vice-president in charge of production of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, said:

"It is indeed gratifying to me, and to all others who have fought to bring the motion picture business to its present state of eminence, to see such a magnificent institution as Harvard make the interpretation of the art of the films and its relation to our modern times."

"We will be glad to have Dr. Field with us and will extend him every help."

POWERFUL MEDIUM

Adolph Zukor, head of Paramount Pictures, said:

"The motion picture, through its oral and visual presentation, is, I am sure, the most effective and powerful teaching and entertaining medium."

"We are glad to have this activity recognized by such a splendid university, as Harvard."

Lauding the plan, Father Charles A. McQuillan, president of Loyola University, was enthusiastic over motion pictures as a fine art.

"There is plenty of development yet to be done," he declared, and it offers a great scope to those artistically inclined who seek to express their talent through this medium. And in so doing, these artists are creating a dramatic form of expression unequalled before."

Vierling M. Kersey, superintendent of schools, remarked that those close to Hollywood have long recognized the cinema as an imaginative art form different from any yet devised, and that Harvard's action is a symptom of the world's awakening awareness.

ATHOL, July 11—The rat-a-tat of dancing feet was 16-year-old Anna May's greeting to her wedding morn today.

To music furnished by the radio Anna "practiced her tap dancing."

A little later, accompanied by her 63-year-old husband-to-be, she arrived in Athol's "downtown" shopping district "to get her hair fixed," she explained and to make last-minute purchases for the wedding.

WEDDING IN EVENING

The wedding hour is at 9 o'clock tonight. The place — St. John's Episcopal Church.

Sixty-three-year-old Herbert David Boutall walked calmly at Anna's side during her shopping tour, ignoring covert stares, responding calmly to greetings.

He spent yesterday shining up his car, seeing to it that it has plenty of gas and oil.

"We'd both rather stay right here at home," he said, "but what with publicity and all it looks as though we'll have to go away if we're going to have any privacy on our honeymoon."

ANNA TELLS LOVE

Anna said:

"We love each other very much. It doesn't matter where we go. We just want people to leave us alone."

The ceremony is to be performed by the Rev. Percival Wood, with Anna's sisters and brothers as wedding attendants.

NEW YORK, July 11 (INS)—Having fulfilled all necessary legal requirements, Frances Langford and Jon Hall, screen stars, were remarried today in a quiet ceremony at the Little Church Around the Corner.

The nuptials were performed by the Rev. Victor A. Menard, and only a few close friends of the couple were present.

Miss Langford and Hall previously were married in a civil ceremony at Yuma, Ariz., but desired to be remarried in a religious service here.

If they find that they are—and have violated any of its provisions—they may be fined up to $10,000.

Pair Wrote Secret Notes

Adela Rogers St. Johns, noted screen and fiction writer, has written the "behind the headlines" story of Barbara Hutton, Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow. To Miss St. Johns the young heiress confided her hopes and plans. In today's instalment Barbara tells how the handsome young Prince Alexis Mdivani—"my only friend"—entered her life.

By ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CHAPTER THREE.

"I hadn't had a very happy childhood. You don't, you know, when you have millions of dollars and no mother and no home."

That, in newspaper parlance, is a direct quote from Barbara Hutton.

I don't think anyone else ever heard her say that. But as she said it, quietly, gravely, so soon after she had almost died in giving birth to her baby, there was no way to disbelieve her.

You knew that her childhood, that time which should be inviolate, had not been happy. You knew that she had been lonely and stood outside, watching the other girls who had mothers, watching the other girls who had real homes.

And then, looking at me again with those big, grave eyes, she said:

"Nothing can happen to me now, can it?"

That was when she was happy with Count Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow. Now, he is her enemy. Now, she is a young American girl alone among foreigners.

A girl who made many mistakes, who made a rather silly spectacle of herself at one time, a girl who tried to drown her loneliness in excitement and spending her millions, but still an American girl now alone at the mercy of foreign courts and foreign men.

ADRIFT IN YOUTH

It's not at all a nice thing to think about, even if it is all her fault.

You see, I will not deny that I like Barbara Hutton. If you investigate you will find that most people who know her, like her. Hold that against me if you will.

But remember that I know her, have talked deeply and intimately with her, have seen her at crucial moments. I know, as she knows, that at times she made a silly, wild young spectacle of herself. Let's go back and see why.

When she was 14 her father married again.

"My father was young and very busy," Barbara told me, talking of her youth. "He loved me, of course, but I was only an ordinary, rather stupid little girl and I couldn't be a real companion to a gay, brilliant young man, could I?"

As it happened, Barbara liked her stepmother. But it made her feel more and more an outsider. It made her feel more and more that she didn't belong anywhere.

Her father was happy with his pretty new wife. Her family were all business and happy and gay. There wasn't anyone who really cared an awful lot about Barbara Hutton.

MEETS HER PRINCE

The golden girl was very much adrift in those days. So she decided, at 16, to start life for herself, to make her own life without any regard for anyone else.

That would be the only way that she could manage to be the center of something, to be something more than a mere outsider.

It was then that for the first time she met Alexis Mdivani.

The people of America have held many things against Barbara Hutton.

Persistently, definitely, bravely she kept asking me:

"Why do people in America dislike me so much? There are other girls as rich, richer, almost as rich. Why do they especially dislike me?"

Well, honestly, Prince Alexis Mdivani was one reason. We had an idea—I had it myself—that Barbara had fallen madly in love with the young Georgian. That may be she was intrigued by his title. That she had given American men the go-by for this foreign prince.

The truth is different. When Barbara first met Alexis she was 15 years old. She had no close friend, no confidant, no mother. Her father was in the glamorous excitement of the first year of his second marriage.

Her aunt Jessie was absorbed in her own trials and tribulations, which ended in her husband's suicide. Her aunt Helena was heart and soul devoted to husband's family.

PRINCE MDIVANI

BABS HUTTON

He Brought Happiness

MDIVANI ONLY FRIEND

As for the Woolworth's—C. S. Woolworth, now chairman of the board of the Woolworth company—they were staid, straight-laced old people from Pennsylvania, ready to work, to go to church and extremely conservative, for all their money.

Little Barbara, aged 15, just as imaginative, just as silly, just as emotional as any other young American girl of 15, had no close friend, no one to talk to, no one to whom she could tell her little thoughts and dreams.

It was then that she met Alexis Mdivani.

"He was so kind and so gentle," she told me. "He listened to all my hurts and problems. When I tried to explain to him all my bewildered young thoughts, all the hurts and fears that were upon me, he didn't seem bored at all, the way most older people did."

"He didn't dismiss my fears with a laugh the way other people did, and just tell me that anybody who had as much money as I did shouldn't worry about anything."

"You see, other girls wouldn't have very much to do with me. They seemed to resent the fact that I had so much money, as though that gave me an unfair advantage. As though it might give me an advantage over them in society, or with men, or something."

No girl friends. Everyone forbade it. No mother. No family. Barbara, being very wild and free on her own at 16 with no one to tell her what to do or how she should do it. Into this came the suave, wise young Georgian.

NOT LOVE AT FIRST

It is necessary to know him a little to understand what followed. The Mdivani had actually a right to a title. Once upon a time, as history will show you, they were part of the colorful, picturesque, fighting little kingdom of Georgia. Then came the revolution and all that was changed.

Two brothers—Serge and David—went to Hollywood and married Pola Negri and Mae Murray, respectively. But Alexis, the cleverest and wisest of them went into society.

His life, like Barbara's, had been strange and unusual. He had gone to school with the two sons of the James Laurans Van Alens. When he journeyed to America they were his social sponsors.

But he had known poverty, desperation, ugliness, in Paris without money after the revolution. Those who knew him well thought him a philosopher.

I suppose no one will ever know why he spent so much time in cultivating the friendship of the five and ten cent store princess, who was a plump little girl of fifteen. But years later, when he was tragically dead, when she had been divorced from him, had remarried, Barbara said to me:

"In those days, when I was a kid, he was my one friend. My only friend. He was the only person who ever talked sense to me. He was the only person who ever thought I might have any sense, any vision, any intelligence."

"When we were apart I used to sit down and pour out everything to him in long letters, telling him when my feelings were hurt, telling him about my triumphs and success and I had the most wonderful letters from him. It wasn't even the suggestion of a love affair then—I was only 15 or 16 and he was in love with Louise Van Alen—but he made himself the one person I could trust with all my thoughts."

BECOMES A PLAYGIRL

That is the truth, you see. And it is rather different than the idea of a spoiled, headstrong millionaire baby suddenly falling for a young foreign title, for reasons of social advancement or glamour.

"My only friend." That is what Barbara called him to me.

The only friend of her gay and wild and headlined days. For it was then that she made her $60,000 debut at the Ritz Hotel. It was then that she was courted by half a dozen young men, that she became Broadway's most notorious play girl.

"There wasn't," she said, "much else to do."

So she danced at the Central Park Casino with Winston Guest and Jimmy Baskely and her cousin, Jimmy Donahue.

She wore diamonds and enchanting clothes. She was the Dollar Princess, aged 17. With an income of hundreds of thousands of dollars a year. With no real social position and tradition to live up to—with nothing but her money to make her important.

And no one perhaps until this day has ever known that all the time she was receiving those long, wise, careful letters of friendship from Prince Alexis Mdivani.

It isn't difficult to see why Alexis Mdivani became her "only friend."

Perhaps, Mdivani, himself hurt and buffeted by life, really liked the shy, frightened little girl who was making splash headlines because she didn't know what else to do.

PRINCE GETS MARRIED

Perhaps he understood that she was just like any other girl of 15, 16, 17.

Of course Barbara loved clothes; of course she had the most exciting and expensive debut of any young girl of her time.

Why not? She could pay for it. And she knew perfectly well that only her money made her a debutante at all.

Already, you see, there was beginning to seep into her pretty blonde head, so dumb in some ways, so shrewd in others, the knowledge that money was the only thing about her that mattered.

Of course, she had a good time. Perhaps it was a little more hectic, a little sillier, a little more wild than the good times other girls had, because, after all, she couldn't be a piker, could she? They were supposed to make other people have a good time, too.

Alexis married the stately, quiet, blue-blooded Louise Van Alen, with her conservative fortune.

But the letters never stopped. And then came that other strange vague road that I suppose happen in every life. It doesn't help to look back and say—if she had done this if her family had stepped in—if it hadn't been influenced—

Barbara Hutton met Phil Plant.

The Broadway millionaire playboy and the golden girl. Two young people with so much money that between them money couldn't matter. Perhaps the only man Barbara Hutton ever knew who was in no wise influenced by her vast fortune.

Phil Plant was heir to $25,000,000 in his own right—and that's all the money anyone can possibly handle anyhow.

(Follow this graphic story of Barbara Hutton's life in the Boston Evening American.)

Gum on Plane's Tail for Luck: Fliers' Wives Rejoice As Hughes Lands

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Almost in a split second after the arrival of Howard Hughes' silver monoplane today at Le Bourget, France, the news winged its way back over the Atlantic to the hotel room where the wives of the two navigators waited.

"We're so happy," laughed Mrs. Thomas L. Thurlow and Mrs. Harry Connor.

Mrs. Connor never had a moment's doubt of a safe journey, but believed Mrs. Thurlow had been a bit worried.

Lieut. Thurlow's three-year-old son, Tommy, Jr., played on the floor, a little bewildered by all the excitement over his daddy's flight to Paris.

RESTLESS SLEEP

Both women admitted they slept fitfully last night.

Mrs. Richard Stoddard, wife of the radio engineer, waited by a radio in a nearby hotel to hear her husband's voice. All she could say was:

"I'm very happy—delighted—excited. It shows what truly marvellous fliers they all are."

The three wives were in the crowd that waved cheery goodbyes last night at Floyd Bennett airport as the big ship trundled down the runway and nosed skyward. They watched it vanish over the Atlantic.

GUM ON SHIP'S TAIL

Just before the departure, Mrs. Connor slipped through a police cordon and stuck a wad of chewing gum to the ship's tail.

"For good luck," she cried. "I told Harry to be sure to bring it back safely to me!"

Hughes' Pace Far Ahead Of Wiley Post Average

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Howard Hughes' flight headquarters estimated today if the million-dollar sportsman pilot maintains his present pace he will arrive in Moscow nearly 24 hours ahead of the time set by the late Wiley Post in his 1931 record-breaking round-the-world flight.

Hughes' associates here said they believed Hughes should arrive in the Soviet capital by about 10 p. m. Boston time. If he does, his elapsed time from Floyd Bennett Field to Moscow would be approximately 28 hours and 40 minutes as against Post's time of 50 hours and ten minutes.

Post reached Moscow on the second morning of his flight on an Eastern Standard Time basis, although this probably was due to intermediate stops he made after leaving Berlin where he first landed from Floyd Bennett Field.

Howard Hughes and his crew are wished a safe voyage by Grover Whalen, president of the New York World's Fair, as they climb into their plane for their take-off from Floyd Bennett airport on their big hop to Paris. Left to right—Edward Lund, flight engineer, Howard Hughes, Grover Whalen, Harry Connor, navigator, Dick Stoddard, radio engineer, and Lieut. Hiram Thurlow, co-pilot.

Post's round-the-world record, which Hughes has been planning to attempt to crack for some two years, is seven days, 15 hours and 49 minutes.

Hughes' tentative first landing place beyond Moscow was Irkutsk, about 2400 miles beyond the Soviet capital. It was considered likely that he would push on without attempting to obtain rest on the ground since the plane is equipped with an "automatic pilot" which permits him cat-naps in the air.

Margot Back, Will Seek Reno Divorce

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Margot Grahame, movie actress, came back from Europe in the S. S. Normandie today and said she would go to Reno to divorce her husband of seven years, Francis Lister. After that, she said, she'll make a picture in Hollywood.

Hurley Will Face Solons

Governor Hurley today announced he will personally address a joint session of the Legislature when it is convened tomorrow at noon.

The governor's topic, Secretary Paul Ryan said, will be "unemployment." The supplementary budget message would follow.

It is unusual, but not unprecedented, for a governor of Massachusetts personally to address the legislature. Gov. Ely, in 1931, made such a plea for a bond issue.

Legislators expected the governor to offer some sort of compromise plan on the work-relief programs hitherto rejected.

Of these, one was for a $23,525,000 bond issue, and the other involved the expenditure of $17,500,000.

The legislature insisted he send in his complete financial program including the supplementary budget.

Scan Writing In Vote Probe

Investigation into alleged vote frauds in Charlestown during the last election was launched today by the Suffolk County grand jury.

Witnesses called today included Edward W. Fallon, superintendent of Police, and Lieutenant Herbert Schulze of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

Handwriting specimens of persons allegedly involved in "vote padding" were submitted by Miss Katherine O'Brien, handwriting expert.

Others called were Lieutenant Wilfred Mulligan, in charge of police listings, Patrolmen Michael J. Murphy, Martin Beck, John J. Crawford and Special Officer Joseph Cullinane, appointed by Police Commissioner Joseph F. Timilty to investigate alleged fraud with police listings.

Jealousy Of Babs' Count Bars Make Up

By KINGSBURY SMITH

Copyright, 1933, by International News Service

LONDON, July 11—The mysterious "gentleman in London" may be only a wrath-like figure in the background of the quarrel between Count and Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow, yet the unknown man stands in the way of their reconciliation.

Countess Barbara considers Count Court's suspicion concerning the "gentleman in London" so unjustified that she has taken positive steps toward a divorce.

This was learned today from a friend of the Woolworth heiress, who is closely connected with the case, and therefore in a position to speak with authority.

T. RUSH DIVORCE

Countess Barbara, this informant said, has instructed Henning Reppe, her Danish solicitor, to prepare legal documents and institute proceedings for a separation and divorce as soon as possible after hearings on the charges she has lodged against her husband are concluded.

Barbara was said to believe that Count Court's suspicions were due to a streak of violent and abnormal jealousy—so violent that he allegedly threatened to shoot the "gentleman in London."

This trait on the part of the Danish count is a chief factor making reconciliation impossible, the informant told International News Service.

As a result of this jealousy, Countess Barbara was said to feel that Count Court unreasonably and unjustifiably exaggerated the importance of her friendship with the "gentleman in London."

The former American girl's spokesman was able to shed much light on the bitterness existing between the Count and Countess, but the name of the "gentleman" in the case still remains a mystery.

Barbara, it was stated emphatically by friends, is not in love with this man, nor has there ever been anything remotely approaching a love affair between them.

OUT WEST, TOO, ONE SMOKER TELLS ANOTHER "CAMELS AGREE WITH ME"

ROUND-UP TIME at the famous Pitchfork Outfit, 200,000-acre Wyoming ranch of Charles J. Belden. The picture above shows "Chuck" Curtis "heeling" calves. Exciting work, but plenty tough too. So "Chuck's" cigarette is Camel! "When I get dog-tired," he says, "a Camel gives a 'lift' to my energy!" And that goes for many another cow-puncher. Out west, too, Camel is the favorite cigarette.

COME NIGHTFALL, the bunch sets out at Cook George Weller's chuck-wagon. Ken Stingel wrangles his guitar, while the boys vocalize, "Home on the Range." Camels aplenty here, for, as Ted Riegel (right of coffee pot) puts it, "After you've tucked away a hearty meal, there's nothing like a Camel 'for digestion's sake'—for extra-mild, tasty smokin' too. And most top-hands'll go along with that sentiment. We say Camel's the cigarette that agrees with us—all 'round!"

Are Camels really different from other cigarettes? "Yes," say smokers all over America. Millions know the big difference Camels make in smoking pleasure. Camels set you right!

COW-PUNCHERS Curtis and Riegel certainly feel that there is a big difference between Camels and other cigarettes. Read what they say—at right!

CHUCK, HOW COULD ANYBODY SAY THAT ALL CIGARETTES ARE ALIKE? CAMELS ARE SURE WAY AHEAD IN MY ESTIMATION!

NO SIR—I DON'T GO FOR THE IDEA OF ALL CIGARETTES BEIN' ALIKE. CAMELS ARE A SIGHT DIFFERENT FROM OTHER CIGARETTES. I'VE BEEN OPEN-MINDED AND TRIED 'EM ALL, BUT I ALWAYS COME BACK TO CAMELS. I FIND CAMELS AGREE WITH ME!

"NO JUMPY NERVES for me!" says "Chuck" Curtis, who needs every ounce of nerve-power for the exhausting work of riding herd—wrangling horses—roping more than a hundred calves a day. "Chuck" says: "It's a big point with me, havin' my nerves healthy. Camels don't get on my nerves—and I smoke 'em steady. And Camels never get my throat to feelin' all roughed up and ticklish. Cow-punchers have a mighty friendly feelin' for Camels. They set us right!"

8000 YD Men Open 'War'

CAMP EDWARDS, Bourne, July 11—Warming up for an elaborate mock war early next week, 8000 men of the Yankee Division, in air and on land, today swung into war maneuvers along a 21-mile front.

In the attack 29 National Guard planes roared over a "battlefield" where 1200 men of the 51st Brigade peppered away at the enemy (targets) 3000 yards distant. Three-inch guns were used.

A short distance away the 182d Infantry, equipped with 48 special anti-aircraft guns, were in action.

The 101st Engineers' "demolition crew" blasted timber and destroyed mythical bridges by smashing specially constructed "fence targets." By noon, 35 poison ivy cases were reported and hospitalized.

As another phase of the opening maneuvers, units not actually participating in the field events got their baptism of "poison" gas.

Soldiers, many of them for the first time, were put in a special gas chamber to acquaint them with the noxious fumes—in this case nothing more than ordinary tear gas.

Crash That Killed 8 Laid to Pilot

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—The Bureau of Air Commerce said today that a pilot's confusion as to his whereabouts caused the airplane crash which killed eight persons aboard a Transcontinental and Western Air liner near Waxton, Calif., last March 1.

The bureau's investigating board said the pilot temporarily lost his bearings, probably because of a change in the wind direction and a sharp increase in velocity.

Bandsman's Gun Death Under Probe

CONCORD, N. H., July 11—A house-to-house canvass of residents of South Main street was under way here today following the fatal shooting, by police, of Maurice "Pat" Cahill, widely known musician and dance band leader and former football and baseball star at St. Joseph's high school, Manchester.

Cahill's mother is flying East from Los Angeles. She will demand a thorough investigation, she declared.

Young Cahill was 26. The shooting occurred when police were called to a South Main street address by a neighbor who said he saw a prowler crouching on the second-floor porch of an apartment house.

The apartment, it was found later, was that of Paul Boisvert, former ballroom dancer. Police said Boisvert said he knew Cahill well, but that Cahill had not visited him.

Policemen P. R. Davis and Francis Sullivan said Cahill fled when they arrived. He fell with a police bullet through his back.

Paralysis Outbreak Tests Value of Spray

PALTO ALTO, Cal. July 31—This summer's infantile paralysis outbreaks may prove whether science has at last discovered a prevention in nasal sprays.

The prospects were described today at Stanford University where the spray, zinc sulphate, was discovered. The new development is elimination of spraying and substitution of a simple method of dropping the preventive into the nose.

The place which has to be touched by the zinc sulphate is the olfactory nerve-ending area in the upper nose. This area is the gateway by which infantile paralysis enters.

Only a long-tipped spray, and a specialist or an expert physician to apply it, have been able to reach the "gate" with sufficient zinc.

Under these circumstances, about 2,000,000 persons have been sprayed in epidemic regions in the last three summers without giving the preventive a real test. It is now known that in most instances the zinc never reached the infantile paralysis "gate."

By the new drop method, a person lies on his back with head tipped downward so that the solution runs vertically down to the olfactory area.

Any public health nurse can learn the technique. It was developed at the universities, Stanford and Michigan; here by Dr. Lee Shahnman and at Michigan by Doctors A. C. Furstenberg, Max Peet and I. Jerome Hauser.

The zinc sulphate temporarily destroys the sense of smell. Practically all persons have recovered this sense. But there have not been enough trials to learn whether zinc sulfate would prevent infantile paralysis only at the risk of losing one of the five senses.

British Kill 10 Arabs in Battle

JERUSALEM, July 11 (AP)—A patrol of British troops and Palestine police today killed 10 members of an attacking band and wounded many others as it beat off an ambush near Mount Tabor, biblical home of the Prophetess Deborah.

One Jewish supernumerary constable was killed and another wounded and two British soldiers wounded in the battle, waged in the village of Dabbourieh.

This clash brought total casualties in the week's bloody conflict, beginning July 5, to more than 300. A large band, hidden in ditches alongside a road, opened fire on the patrol. The soldiers and constables returned the fire.

Country-wide reports reaching the Jerusalem central police headquarters showed five Jews were killed and eight wounded in outbreaks of violence Sunday.

The second week of the Holy Land's newest wave of blood-letting found telephone communications cut over the whole of north Palestine, including Nazareth, Tiberias and other centers of the Galilee district.

Plan Permanent Refugee Board

EVIAN-LES-BAINS, France, July 11 (AP)—Virtual agreement on an Anglo-American plan for a permanent committee in London to handle the problem of world refugees was reached in private talks among the delegates of the 12-nation refugee conference here, the delegations reported today.

Unless a last minute hitch developed, the conferees hoped to be able to proceed to drawing up an official resolution this afternoon.

A proposal that the committee, as soon as established, ascertain how many refugees must be cared for and how much land is available in the 32 countries represented at the conference, was advanced by Constantino Heredia, speaking for Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Honduras and Panama.

Myron C. Taylor, head of the United States delegation and president of the conference, said he expected the conference might be able to close Friday.

Franco Faces 'Human Wall'

BENDAYE, France, July 11 (AP)—The Spanish government rushed all available reinforcements into the Espadan mountains today to form a human wall along the last natural barrier to the insurgent advance against Sagunto and Valencia.

Insurgent dispatches said the range had been "invested," but military observers expressed doubt that the insurgents had enough manpower to surround the mountains completely.

Japs Again Ask Americans to Quit Hankow

SHANGHAI, July 11 (AP)—The United States and other foreign powers were handed new notes by the Japanese today urging them to evacuate their citizens from a half dozen Yangtze valley cities listed as probable targets for further widespread bombings.

Two previous notes, one a month ago and the other last Saturday, had asked that all foreign vessels and foreigners along the Yangtze river in the path of the Japanese advance on Hankow be removed.

The United States rejected the first note and has not answered the second yet.

Japanese planes already were active in the Yangtze valley, bombing Nanchang and Hangyang airfields and the boom across the river 30 miles upstream from Kiukiang.

CHINESE STILL HOLD VITAL RIVER PORT

HANKOW, July 11 (AP)—Chinese said today their troops still held Kiukiang and strong positions commanding the approaches to this important Yangtze River port 135 miles east of Hankow.

(Reports from Shanghai said Kiukiang was being shelled by Japanese warships.)

The commander of the U. S. gunboat Monocacy, anchored three miles up the river from the city, reported no heavy gunfire was audible.

Ten American missionaries were reported remaining at their posts in Kiukiang, while 50 Americans were remaining at Kuling, nearby mountain resort.

Cardozo Seat To Local Man?

WASHINGTON, July 11 (INS)—President Roosevelt will name one of the nation's outstanding liberals, without regard to geographical, political or other considerations, as the successor of Supreme Court Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo, it was reliably reported here today.

The President was reported as feeling free to follow the precedent set by President Hoover in filling the Supreme Court seat, held for 20 years by the late Oliver Wendell Holmes. Hoover violated all political rules by choosing Cardozo, a Democrat, solely because of his great reputation as a liberal.

The President has laid down but one general rule covering all Supreme Court appointees—that the appointee must be under 60 years of age.

Only recently, he told an associate he hoped to select the next Supreme Court justice from the judiciary. But these two rules may even be waived in naming Cardozo's successor.

The list of possibilities from outside the judiciary included:

Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, 41, ardent New Dealer. Prof. Felix Frankfurter, of Harvard University, 55. James M. Landis, dean of Harvard Law School, 58. Jerome N. Frank, of Chicago and New York, now SEC commissioner, 48. Adolph A. Berle, Jr., of Boston, now assistant secretary of state, 43. Lloyd K. Garrison, dean of the University of Wisconsin Law School, 46.

CARDOZO'S CHAIR DRAPED IN BLACK

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—The Supreme Court chair of Associate Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo was draped with black silk today.

The cloth, in memory of the late justice whose funeral will be held this afternoon in Port Chester, N. Y., will remain in place for at least 30 days, court officials said, and perhaps until his successor is chosen.

Roosevelt Off Again on Texas Panhandle Tour

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 11.—Given a rousing send-off by thousands of Texans who lined the streets to cheer him, President Roosevelt moved westward today into the Panhandle country intent upon his mission of expounding the philosophy of the New Deal and assisting his friends in their political contests.

Mr. Roosevelt spent the week-end quietly at the 1500-acre ranch of his son, Elliott, some 20 miles from Fort Worth, and motored in from the country to catch his train at 10 a. m.

Fort Worth streets were lined with people to cheer him on his way.

Although the schedule as originally arranged called for only one speech at Amarillo tonight, the President yielded to the importunities of Texas politicians and a number of rear platform appearances will give his people of the panhandle a chance to see him during the day.

The President will spend several hours in Amarillo tonight and make a speech at Elwood Park where elaborate arrangements have been made to take care of 150,000 persons from all parts of the panhandle country.

Among the features of the Amarillo show will be a massed band of some 200 pieces, gathered from 63 communities.

When the presidential special rolled out of Ft. Worth today, it had aboard a number of Texas Democrats, some of whom as candidates for renomination in the forthcoming primary, were eager for the Rooseveltian blessing.

Mr. Roosevelt's route today lay through the congressional districts of Rep. Fritz Lanham and Rep. Marvin Jones, chairman of the House agriculture committee. Also aboard were Gov. Alfred, Rep. Hattin W. Summers, chairman of the House judiciary committee, and Rep. Maury Maverick.

Elliott Roosevelt, the President's son, who as a budding radio station operator in Texas, is reputed to have some political ambitions of his own, also was aboard.

Trusty East Wind on Job

Boston's famous east wind, brought relief to the city today after yesterday's torrid temperatures that reached 90.1 at 4.30 p. m.

Today's "early morning temperatures were running neck and neck with those of yesterday, but the east wind today promised to keep things down, whereas yesterday they spiraled upward.

It was 76 at 9 a. m. today. At 9.30, thanks to Old Man East Wind, it was 75.

Hottest July 11 on record was in 1911, when the mercury touched 100. Coldest on record was 54 in 1860.

Mystery Woman Aids Bartolini

Information that may save Oscar Bartolini from the electric chair has been given to his attorneys by the mysterious "Mrs. Bee," they announced today.

"Yes, I saw her and spoke with her personally," Attorney George B. Laurie told a reporter for The Boston Evening American.

It was last week that it was revealed that "Mrs. Bee" had written to Bartolini's attorneys offering her help. They established communication with her through a "personal" in the want ad columns of this newspaper.

Her information, Laurie said, concerns in part the mysteriously vanished John Lyons, war veteran and friend of the slain Mrs. Grayce Asquith, Weymouth widow, for whose murder Bartolini now is condemned to death.

"The value of 'Mrs. Bee's' information," Laurie said, "depends, however, upon our ability to hook it up with other facts."

"I am going to ask Governor Hurley for a stay of execution."

Governor Hurley last week refused a plea for a commutation of Bartolini's sentence to life imprisonment. The prisoner is doomed to die the last week of this month.

False Teeth Wearers Are Worst Breath Offenders!

"Need More Than a Mouth Wash" say Authorities... Recommend Polident

Plates and bridges soak up odors and impurities like a sponge. A film of dark gum collects on them. This gum holds germs and food bacteria. It is so tough that ordinary brushing seldom removes it. And it gets into every tiny crevice where brushing can't even reach. Almost always it results in "denture breath" - probably the most offensive of all breath odors.

Yet there's a perfect way to clean and purify false teeth without brushing, acid or danger. It is Polident, the powder that dissolves away all gum, stains, tartar and odor. Makes breath sweeter, and plates or bridges look better and feel better. Tens of thousands call Polident a bless-

Contractors to Poles

Twenty members of the government's crack intelligence unit have popped into town to check up on the income tax returns of politicians and lawyers who are credited with receiving $200,000 from contractors . . . In claiming deductions in their own returns, the contractors named the persons to whom they paid the heavy sugar . . . Uncle Sam now demands his share of the sweetening . . . There is a famous federal tax decision which permitted a ship building company to take a deduction for money used to bribe a government official.

Acting Internal Revenue Collector Thomas B. Hassett, a career man with a record of real accomplishments in the tax field, has strong supporters who would like to see President Roosevelt name him as collector . . . It should not be a liability for a candidate for a public office to have the qualities to serve the public.

Charles F. Adams, chairman of the board of Suffolk Downs, has refused to make a statement for the past four years that the track has been a success. Adams insists that the track is a success. Adams has paid $100,000 a year for the past four years for expenses which president and general manager of the track, Frank J. Murphy, Jr., has paid. Suggests Curley-Kelly as Entry

The present stock market rise, says a man who should know, is due to a better feeling of control among people who have managed to get out of the depression and the fear of inflation. It is inflation, however, that will be better to own stocks, especially if they are recommended stocks, than it will be to have cash.

It was suggested at the Paddock Club, at Suffolk Downs, on Saturday, that former Governor Curley and Lieut. Gov. Kelly run as an entry. With an understanding as to which candidate would carry the backing of the anti-Hurley forces in the primaries. . . Supporters of Gov. Hurley believe that the more candidates he has in the primaries the better will be his chances of victory. . . Billy McMenamin says the depression has caught up with those persons who have been in the habit of contributing large sums of money to election fights.

Remember the names of John Turner, racing secretary at Rockingham Park, and of Pat Hogan, former racing secretary at Narragansett Park, when a successor to Gene Bury is considered. . . Hogan is living on a farm this side of the Massachusetts line from Rhode Island.

Attorney Edmund J. Brandon, Mrs. Brandon, Dan Gurnett and Mrs. Gurnett, are today cruising on Jimmy Roosevelt's yacht along the Maine coast. . . They are bound for Nova Scotia, and will be gone for ten days.

John G. Galloway, of the Fox-McLean company, a deal for the downtown property. It is his plan to have the building converted into the largest night club in the city. . . A plan which is being considered by the city.

Warns America Of Red Ideas

There are two general progressive outlooks in the world today. Dr. Friedrich said "The American and the Russian." The Russian outlook is centralistic, Communist, and materialistic. The American outlook is individualistic, democratic, and spiritual. Let us labor to show the success which can be achieved through the American form in bringing happiness to the people at large.

Let Business Speak!

The Editor Says: The art and science of publicity has made many significant advances in recent years. It is no longer merely an isolated and specialized effort to sell goods. It has become a motivating and co-ordinating force in the economic and social movements that give character and strength to the modern world.

Publicity still has the task of selling goods. But it has a greater and more important labor.

To convince by demonstration that production, commerce and profits are the economic essentials without which civilization cannot stand.

To exploit the plain fact that civilization is the handwork of business.

Kenneth Collins, advertising executive, put the whole thing in a nutshell when he said recently to the Pacific Coast Advertising Club:

"We must not only advertise products, but we must advertise business. The value of business to the country is not appreciated. A great many attacks are made upon it, and it has not yet adequately defended itself. The benefits of business must be made known to the country."

IT IS TRUE that the critics of business have been better paid than its champions. The fallacy has gained ground that there must be something wrong with business, a fallacy born of ignorance and lack of knowledge.

Yet business is the source of the business that has conceived and executed the grandest and most important contributions to civilization.

It has opened and settled new lands.

It has discovered and perfected new materials, new tools and new processes.

It has made goods cheaper, better, more widely distributed and more easy to obtain.

It has supported the arts and sciences.

It has stimulated and promoted education.

And most important of all, it has done all this in the spirit of co-operation, of a healthier and vitalizing rivalry to see who could do things better, cheaper, more beautiful and more quickly.

THE RESULT is a better world in which men can work easily in harmony, where all men can partake of comfort, plenty and security.

In brief, this means the highest kind of patriotism.

Advertising men devote the effort and ingenuity to keep these simple, obvious and incontrovertible facts before the public.

This done, the capricious complainer, no half-witted critic will be heard to utter his criticisms without being laughed to scorn.

GOOD NEWS to war veterans is the information that the Federal Government is prepared to contribute 45 per cent of the money required to repair the out-moded and inadequate hospital at the Soldiers' Home in Chelsea.

As that is needed now in order by the Massachusetts Legislature and Governor. The present hospital, built in 1909, is greatly overcrowded.

We hope money will be found to give our former soldiers proper care and attention. It is the least a grateful nation and State can do for them.

The Political Parade

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN
DALTON, Ga., July 11

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT touched the heart of the South with that subtlety of which he is so completely the master. At the moment of his coming in to it.

The South will respond to a gesture that will be of important political effect, regardless of its conscious intent. Mr. Roosevelt does the politically obvious by natural instinct.

A tour by automobile visiting the little out-of-the-way places of the deep South, through the Carolinas, and Georgia, reveals to the eye the truth of what Mr. Roosevelt has said of the plight of many vast units of the Southern people.

Some counties, like Stewart County, in this State, are almost one vast cotton. There when the soil was worn out by a fanatical zeal for King Cotton, the once well-to-do people moved out, and left their abandoned land to the homeless tenant staring into an unattractive future.

Many thousands of people of the more hopeless classes are living in tumbledown, unpainted cabins without even glass in their windows. Window screens are unknown. The torments endured from insects can only be imagined.

It would be a mistake to assume that Mr. Roosevelt is the first to hear the distress pleas of these splendid but backward people.

Thirty-five years ago a remarkable woman, Miss Martha Berry, in the little town of Rome, in Georgia, began a school for the poor. She started a school, now the famous Berry School, of Rome, a monument to her own indefatigable spirit and to the warm impulses of the American people.

WHEN Miss Berry first tried to obtain a contribution for her school from Henry Ford, and he developed a strong sales resistance, he at length consented to give her 10 cents.

Miss Berry purchased 10 cents worth of peanuts, planted them, raised a crop, packed another from that seed, and finally raised a big money crop. When Henry Ford heard of this, he set down and wrote a check. His contributions have now passed the million mark. The Berry School for the children folk is of international fame.

THE PRESIDENT has called attention to nothing new. All in all, it is a costly survey by Lowell Mellett's expensive NATIONAL emergency council, financed by Congress to the tune of a million, all the data required might be obtained in Washington at a cost of a few stamps and telephone calls.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

ABOUT all that a woman gets out of giving a man a piece of her mind is the vocal exercise and the momentary stimulation.

No man is a "confirmed bachelor" until he reaches that stage where he takes merely a speculative interest in a kiss, a sporting interest in love and an economic interest in marriage.

Sex novels have lost their popularity. Sex, like food, is a vital part of life—but who wants to read a cook-book every evening?

What of Today, Tomorrow?

Present Day Taxes Called Confiscatory

In New York, Congressman Emanuel Celler suggested something ought to be done about harnessing the power of the federal government to confiscate the earning capacity of an individual.

His plan was simple. He planned to LIMIT the income tax to 25 per cent and restore the sovereignty of citizens.

There is no question about the FACT that high taxes are not only destructive to those of better-than-average income, but they also paralyze prosperity makers, make jobs for the average worker fewer and less secure.

TODAY, many experts hold, government has unrestricted power to CONSCRIPT individual income, which raises fears for TOMORROW.

Henry F. Long, state commissioner of corporations and taxation, tells us what he thinks of the crisis.

By WILLIAM MICHELFELDER

Boston Evening American Staff Writer

What costs the most money these days is taxation.

Can you think of anything else, in the long run, which costs more? For instance

You can't eat, you can't wear a suit or dress without paying a tax. There is NO COMFORT OR LUXURY WHICH TODAY IS FREE OF A TAX. The tax may AFFECT YOU DIRECTLY OR INDIRECTLY, but you still have to pay it.

One dollar out of every five you EARN goes for taxes, which means:

1—One-fifth less food for your family.

2—One-fifth less for necessities.

3—One-fifth less for shelter, fuel, EDUCATION.

Commissioner Henry F. Long, long a taxation expert in Massachusetts, has this to say:

"TAXATION, WHICH IS THE LIFE OF THE NATION, IT BE IN MASSACHUSETTS OR THROUGHOUT THE NATION, HAS NOW REACHED THE POINT OF CONFISCATION."

"There is a deliberate attempt to destroy finance, business and capital. American taxation is on the road to CONTROL OF INCOME. There seems to be no relation to the income of property, nor to the thought there are many things WHICH MUST BE PROVIDED FOR out of earnings."

Commissioner Long referred to depreciation, need of expansion, opportunities of experimentation and types of speculative enterprises which, in the past, have succeeded in raising the standard of living.

He continued:

"It seems to me, taxation should be used only for the purpose of revenue."

"If revenue is the object, then it is axiomatic that in taxing there MUST BE AN AVOIDANCE OF POSSIBLE DESTRUCTION. Capital cannot be used for paying the current cost of government without destroying the revenue in succeeding years."

"THE SCIENCE OF TAXATION MUST RECOGNIZE WELL-ESTABLISHED PRINCIPLES."

"It must recognize the fact that, if a person who owns an orchard chops down the trees and burns them, he will decrease his fruit yield until ultimately he will have no yield at all.

Commissioner Long pointed out there are 183,000 taxing agencies in the United States ASSESSING taxes against the people.

MEANINGLESS taxes are sapping the resources of industry. BLOCK normal production and employment.

"TAXATION HAS REACHED THE POINT WHERE IT MUST TAKE ALL INTEREST ON A SMALL NUMBER OF PERSONS AND LIMITED PROPERTY. SPECIALLY BECAUSE TAXATION IS IN THE HANDS OF A MINORITY, IT IS A MEANS FOR ITS OWN ENLIGHTENED PHILANTHROPY OR GREED, MUST WHICH IS NOT DEMOCRACY."

"TAXATION IS THE ONLY FORCE WHICH CAN CONTROL THE WHIMS OF THE CAPITALIST CLASS."

"It has taken long enough on the normal subject of justice from our wars and peacekeeping facilities, from the consumption of raw products and the production of goods."

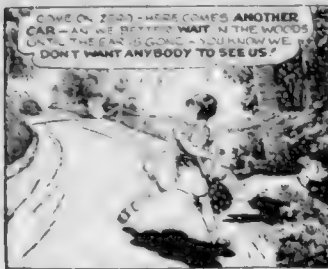

Commissioner Long continued: "THE PRESENT TAXATION IS CONSIDERED BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT WE SHALL HAVE A COMPLETE DESTRUCTION OF CAPITAL TAXATION TODAY IS ANOTHER WORD FOR PERSECUTION OF INDUSTRY, PRODUCTION AND ALL PRIVATE BUSINESS."

"Taxation is fundamentally, in the pure sense of Americanism, an ACTIVITY of our government and NOT AN INSTRUMENT FOR POLITICAL CONTROL."

"The best in taxation is the taxing of the many at low rates so that the stream of commercial and industrial activity will not be materially diminished—at least until after it has turned the wheel TO CREATE A GREATER POWER TO CONTRIBUTE TO THE COST OF GOVERNMENT."

(Another article by an authority on taxation will appear in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.)

MR. BOSTON

On to Rockingham Betting Craze
Seeking Winners Grips Public

By JACK CONWAY

MR. BOSTON was studying the Rockingham Park entries when I popped into the Sports Department this morning.

"I am trying to come up with a winner," said the veteran.

"I would like to get a horse as good as Gallant Gay which won the final race of the Suffolk Downs meeting in such impressive style."

I told Mr. Boston I thought Gallant Gay proved he is back in form again by the way he hopped out from the rail in back of other horses to get into the center of the track where he could do a little running.

"A winner a day," remarked Mr. Boston, "keeps the sheriffs away." "Dynamite Kerr gave me Bally Bay at Agawam on Friday, and I couldn't help going for Gallant Gay on Saturday."

"If Sergeant Eddie Mack were around instead of doing the publicity for the trotters and pacers who are headed for Agawam, I know he would put his finger on one of the horses running at Rockingham today. Eddie, as you know, was with Lou Smith and Jim Munroe, 'The Little Giant,' when they landed legalized racing in New Hampshire."

"Bald Bill" Smith, famous as "The Clocker" and author of Trackman's page in this newspaper's Race Special, picked up his racing books, and took a fast look at a time table.

"Let's get going if we are to get the last minute information on today's races," said Bill.

Mr. Boston collected a dozen form sheets, and hurried by taxicab to the North Station.

Declares Al Smith Has Correct "Dope"

MR. BOSTON studied the Suffolk Downs figures which showed that 1,007,941 persons attended the 57-day race meeting, and poured $22,215,552 into the mutual machines.

"Those figures," asserted Mr. Boston with considerable feeling, "prove people like to go to the races and also have a few hobs on their choice."

"Al Smith spoke truthfully, which has always been a strong point with him, when he declared in Albany the other day that you cannot regulate the morals of people by law. Al believes something should be done about the New York State Constitution which does not permit betting."

"Al declared that when he was Governor of New York State he bet on a horse, but that unfortunately his selection didn't win. He added that about everybody else in New York State seems to be betting, but that the whole thing is illegal. Just like it was illegal to buy liquor during prohibition when everybody who had the price could always get a drink."

"When a thing of itself isn't wrong, Smith does not believe law makers should tell honest people they cannot do it."

"I have always felt that if the people voted into power took as much care about their own conduct as they try to do about decent people who are attending to their own business that it would be a much better world in which to live."

I didn't disagree with anything Mr. Boston said. Personally I have always believed that the American people possessed a great deal of common sense, and that if they were permitted to make their own decisions without too much interference from the politicians that they would do all right.

Amateur Boxing at Nantasket Beach

MR. BOSTON declared he would be at Nantasket Beach tomorrow night.

"And it won't be for the purpose of taking a peek at some of the fillies strolling along the sands," asserted the veteran.

"You're not going in for eating frankfurts and ice cream cones," I said innocently.

"Or going on the roller coaster," added Mr. Boston. "I am going to take in the amateur boxing show at the No. Man's Post, No. 1787, VFW, will stage at Ocean Gardens. There will be bouts for novices at 126 and 147 pounds, while there will be open classes at 147 and 160 pounds."

"I am anxious to find out how the boys can punch with sea breezes blowing on them."

Random Shots at Target

SUFFOLK DOWNS will remain open to accommodate horses racing at Rockingham Park. . . Only racing stables approved by John Turner, racing secretary at Rockingham, will be permitted to use the East Boston track. . . Charles F. Adams, chairman of the board at Suffolk Downs, is anxious to do everything possible to bring about a friendly feeling between the four New England tracks. . . Tommy Parle says there is plenty of life in the ticket sale for the Casey-Shikat world's heavyweight championship wrestling bout that will be staged at Fenway Park on July 19. . . The public is quick to recognize a top attraction in any sport.

Eddie Brennan, who did such a capable job as general manager at Agawam, moves back to Maryland racing for the time being. . . He will return to the up-state track next year. . . It will be interesting to watch the mutual handle at Revere and also at West Springfield now that these dog tracks have not any Massachusetts horse track opposition.

Rabbit-Tony Act

RABBIT WARSTLER and TONY CUCCINELLO of the Bees put on their act from both sides of second base for the Polo Grounds fans, but all in vain, for Bees' hurlers threw up too many home run balls to the Giant sluggers and the Terry-men walked off with the verdict. In the top photo, Kampouris, Giant second baseman, is being tagged out by Warstler on a throw from Cuccinello. In the lower picture, Bob Seeds found Cuccinello with the ball as he tried to steal from first.

Baldness Begins WHEN THIS NATURAL PROCESS STOPS

Malnutrition and Enlargement of Hair
Normal scalp has 100,000 to 150,000 hairs, all shed and replaced in 3 to 5 years. When any of various, local scalp disorders halts this normal replacement, hair thinning and baldness begins. If you have dandruff, itchy scalp or abnormal hair fall, heed the warning and act immediately.

Thousands of men have good heads of hair through Shiffer treatment. You, too, can have a healthy head of hair if your case is accepted for treatment by John E. Warner, Trichologist. There is no charge for a private examination—you will receive sincere advice.

WILSON AGAIN!

The King still reigns!
Dave Wilson, Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser turf expert, who has been champion of all New England handicappers for the past four years, set the pace in the first New England meet of the 1938 season which concluded Saturday at Suffolk Downs.

Wilson's large margin over the field increased considerably when he picked three more winners on the getaway card, which brought his final total for the 57 days to 136 winners and 599 horses which finished in the money!

On no less than two occasions, Wilson missed picking the entire card by a whisker. Twice he had six winners, while the other horses were just beaten out for top honors.

Wilson's phenomenal success in picking winners is just proof of his ability as a handicapper.

It was no easy task picking them at Suffolk Downs during such a long meeting but, like a champion, Wilson ran true to form to come up with the largest number of winners.

Don Budge Insists On Mako as Mate

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—There is noted a renewal of the campaign to get Gene Mako off our Davis

Cup team, the fear being expressed that unless J. Donald Budge has a better doubles partner forced upon him he will be in dire danger of losing the miniature bathtub

this fall at Germantown.

For those who are easily alarmed about such matters, and to calm

Mako's admirers, we hasten to set down that Gene will play alongside the big red head in the challenge round against Australia, and that

Uncle Sam will retain the gilded reservoir by about 4 matches to 1.

The reasons that Mako will stay right in there, despite the viewing-alarm, are two-fold: (1) Budge, the world champion, won't have any other doubles partner, and (2)

the absence of anything resembling dangerous opposition.

With Budge and Bobby Riggs

playing the four singles matches in the challenge round, and probably winning all of them, it would do no appreciable harm if Budge and Groucho Marx got the doubles assignment, with the latter swinging a banjo. In fact, it might add some comic relief.

Dismissing what little real tennis talent there is left in Europe since Gottfried Von Cramm went to prison, it seems virtually certain that the show-off at Germantown will find the two Australians,

Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich, trying to lift the cup.

QUINT SLIPPING

The two other Aussie stars,

Vivian McGrath and Jack Crawford, are reported to have tired of the annual struggle, and, anyway,

Quist and Bromwich have been trimming them regularly of late.

Quist, though still about the best doubles player in the world, isn't the singles threat he was in 1936, when he beat men like Wilmer Allison and Bunny Austin and gave

Von Cramm a sensational scrap in the inter-zone final at Wimbledon. They say he never has recovered completely from an attack of jaundice.

Bromwich, the other man, is a holly terror in Australia. He is the world's most unorthodox player, hitting the ball "double-handed"

from both sides and generally acting like a sleight-of-hand artist.

The only thing he isn't yet quite

20, and something seems to happen to his game on this side of the world.

Budge, of course, will trim both here.

TUNE'S LADDER, and LADY

HONOLULU will force the top one to limit to win.

Six Games In Park League

Six games feature tonight's card in the Park League, which will mark the opening of the tenth week of league play.

At Fen's Stadium, the Mass. Knitting Mills will have the company of the Roslindale Town Club. The Knitters held the lead in games played to date between these clubs, 2-1. Manager Martel will send Johnny Lamb of Gloucester to the hill while the "Townies" will depend upon the slants of Joe Cassala, Fallon Field, Roslindale, the hotbed of Twilight baseball, will find St. Augustine being entertained by the Holy Name A. A. The church boys have made a very impressive record the past week knocking off the Casey Club behind the stellar twirling of their newly-acquired right-hander, Curt Fullerton. Billy Benoit will use "Happy" Harris on the hill to oppose the former major leaguer.

The new entry in the league, the Agnew Club of Allston will meet the Casey Club of Neponset at Cleveland Circle in the third battle of the night. Charlie Bird is slated to see action on hill for the Casey while Bernstein will twirl for the "Aggies."

At Lee Playground, South Boston, the fast traveling Madden Club of Roxbury will journey to the McDonough's ballyard to seek a win. Gus Rock will be on the hill for the McDonoughs while "One-Hit" Yates, who has won five of the ten victories the Maddens have annexed, will twirl for the Roxbury nine.

Tom Early's St. Ambrose Club will be at home to the Brighton Civics at the Dorchester Town Field and at the Smith Pond Playground, Hyde Park, the Wilson Club of Dorchester will travel to Hyde Park in quest of a win over the Tribunes, a feat they have been unable to perform to date.

Will Your Hair GO or GROW this Summer?

HAIR can be harmed or helped easier in the summer than at any other season. Improper exposure to the sun is sure to result in abnormal hair-fall. On the other hand, it is a known scientific fact that hair normally grows faster in the summer than at any other season. You can take advantage of this seasonal peculiarity by learning how and when to expose your hair and scalp to the summer sun.

A Thomas scalp expert will gladly examine your hair and scalp (without charge) and advise you in detail as to how to care for your hair during the summer months. He'll tell you how to get rid of your dandruff; how to stop abnormal hair-loss; and how Thomas treatment promotes normal hair growth on thin and bald spots. Call at a Thomas office today for a free scalp examination.

Rail Station Close Set For Sunday

Next Sunday, July 17, was announced as the date upon which the New Haven Railroad will abandon 93 of the Old Colony division stations, 85 in Massachusetts, five in Rhode Island.

Permission to abandon the stations was granted by the federal court in New Haven Saturday on the railroad's plea that it is bankrupt and that the abandonment will mean a saving of $650,000 a year.

Included are a majority of the stations on Cape Cod, from Bourne to Provincetown. The road claims that modern bus and private motor transportation is available to commuters.

J. Burke Sullivan, chairman of the Massachusetts public utilities commission, today indicated possibilities of further action by state authorities who have opposed the abandonment. The New Haven court's order, he said, might be appealed.

Or, he suggested, the Massachusetts public utilities commission could, after a hearing, order service to the Massachusetts stations restored, and turn the order over to the attorney-general for enforcement.

Dignitaries See Rare Ceremony

Citing Crown Prince Gustaf Adolf of Sweden as "archaeologist and patron of the arts," President James B. Conant of Harvard today conferred upon the royal visitor the honorary degree of doctor of laws.

The special presentation ceremony, in University Hall, was one of the few ever held other than at commencement time in all Harvard's long history.

Guests of honor included Crown Princess Louise, Governor Hurley and more than 200 notables of the state, the university and the cities of Boston and Cambridge.

Elm-shaded Harvard yard was thronged by thousands of onlookers as the academic procession, headed by President Conant and Dr. Reginald Fitz, university marshal, marched to the scene of the exercises.
